

Iran – a reopening market

A plan is in place for the large scale removal of EU sanctions and lifting of asset freezes on individual and corporate business in Iran.

Implementation Day will occur when Iran has completed the agreed actions on its nuclear programme and this has been verified by the IAEA. Iran is making good progress towards completing those actions though there is not yet confirmation on when these steps will be completed. An official statement will be made when Implementation Day has been reached.

Opportunities are expected in oil and gas, mining, engineering, transport, medical, tourism, IT and banking. In anticipation of the trade restrictions being lifted join us to hear from four experts on how your business can prepare to do business in this growing market.
